Charles Robertson Coatesville Chapter

Charles Robertson is serious about his education and his future. He is currently in the 9th grade at Coatesville Area Intermediate High School. He has earned National Junior Honor Society honors, been on the Distinguished Honor Roll, and attended the Junior National Young Leaders Conference. A very involved student, outside of his studies he plays lacrosse, runs track, plays the saxophone, performs drama, is on the Student Council, and sings in the Gospel Choir.

This is Charles' second Program Year with YMWIC. He says he most enjoys the Science Projects he completes for the Science Expo and the exciting, fun-packed workshops. His social skills have improved, and he has learned how to interact more effectively with others. Charles' advice for other students who may be interested in the Program is, "Join the Program so you can be well-rounded and develop life skills." His advice for his peers is, "Don't waste time fooling around in school with the wrong crowd; because in the end, you could be overlooked."

Charles has set his sights high; he would like to attend Cornell University, Penn State University, or Princeton University to become a chemist or neurosurgeon. In his free time, he likes to draw, journal, sing and study the sciences.

Stay focused, Charles; you are on the right track.
