Scholar Spotlight

Jared Ware Martin Luther King Chapter

Jared Ware is a 9th grade Scholar from the Martin Luther King Chapter who joined YMWIC this school year. Since joining, Jared has shown consistency, focus, and a willingness to grow. He shares that one of his favorite parts of being in the Foundation are the people—getting to know other Scholars and supportive staff helped him feel more comfortable and willing to engage with others. This growth has been matched by his academic efforts, as he has earned Distinguished Honor Roll throughout the school year.

In addition to academics, Jared is involved in JROTC and runs track, where he continues to build discipline and teamwork skills. He enjoys listening to music during his free time and is already thinking about his future. Jared hopes to attend college to study engineering and eventually work with fighter jets. He's currently interested in Villanova University and Florida A&M.

When asked what advice he'd give to new or younger Scholars, Jared keeps it simple: "Work hard, study hard." He also encourages others who may not know about the Foundation to, "Give it a shot."

Jared's first year in YMWIC has helped him grow in confidence, both personally and academically; and we're excited to support him as he continues on his path.
