Christmas FRIENDLY FEUD

Game Preparation

Thank you so much for purchasing this friendly feud game.
Your support of my store is so appreciated.

Before you get started you'll need a few minutes to get everything ready.

- ✅ Print out all the documents/cards included in your download.
- ✅ Find some scissors or a craft knife and cut out each question card.
- ✅ Find two buzzers (this can be a bell or anything that makes a noise) and place them on a mock podium. You can use anything - a table or a stool.
- ✅ Some paper (or a flip chart) to record the scores.

Setup

Choose an impartial player to act as host and oversee the game ;
it will be their very important job to read the questions and award points.

Your download has materials to play four complete games ;
the first job of the host is to select 4 question cards to play.

Split the groups into TWO teams to face off against each other, give yourself a winning team name and you are ready to play.

Each feud begins with a FACE OFF. The host selects a question card and invites a player from each team up to the podium to try and take control of the question by giving the most popular answer. If the player who buzzed first gets the highest ranked response on the list their team can choose to PLAY or PASS the question.

If the player who buzzed in first doesn't get the highest ranked answer the competitor gets a chance to answer and steal control. The player with the highest ranked answer chooses to PLAY the question or PASS.

Players on the controlling team take turns guessing an answer. Each player has five seconds to answer and there is no conferring. If the team can guess all of the answers on the board they win the round and all the points revealed ; 100 points.

If they fail to answer or give an incorrect answer they gain a STRIKE. Three STRIKES and the team looses control of the board and play passes to the opposing team. The opposing team can confer and has one chance to come up with ONE of the remaining responses. If they guess correctly they win all the points that have been revealed so far. If they fail the other team gets the points.

Play FOUR rounds - the team with the most points win and has the opportunity to play the FINAL ROUND.

The Final Round

Choose two players ; one member stays with the host while the other disappears to another room.

The first player is given 20 seconds to answer 5 quick fire questions. Each answer is scored by how many people gave that response. The host (or another player) records all answers.

The second player re-joins the group to play and is given 25 seconds to answer the same questions. If an answer is repeated they are asked to give another response. If either player gives an answer than is not on the card they score 0 points.

If the combined score of both team members is more than 200 they win the final round and are the ultimate feud champions!

Alternative ways to play.

NO TEAMS

(Good for smaller groups)

A free-for-all where everyone tries to buzz in and guess an answer. For each correct answer score the points revealed and keep a tally. Three STRIKES (incorrect answers) and you are frozen out of this question.

The person with the most points at the end chooses another player to join them in the final round. The rules for the final round remain the same.

PEN AND PAPER

(A quieter and more relaxed game)

The host takes it in turns to read each question. Players write two answers on a piece of paper trying to reveal the top two responses. If you get a correct answer you score the points revealed ; if you guessed a correct response that nobody else wrote down score double points.

Play as many cards as you wish or until someone has reached a certain number of points.
