David Brooks, DTM, WCPS

KEYNOTE: "Seven Strategies for Successful Speakers: Speaking with Substance and Style"

Speaking with an audience can be as simple as speaking on the telephone once you learn what all effective speakers know: a good speech is good conversation, whether seated or standing. From this practical presentation, you will be able to develop your speaking style to present with polish and poise.

FRIDAY NIGHT: "Just for Laughs" A Very Funny Look At Times When We Don't Communicate What We Thought We Did. If you enjoyed Jay Leno's "Headlines" segment on the Tonight Show, then you'll love this presentation and walk away with useful tools to communicate better. It's light and lively with good, clean, real and funny situations.

David Brooks is an award-winning professional speaker and trainer who has taught nearly 100,000 business professionals to speak and write clearly, concisely, and confidently.

In addition to his teaching, writing, and training skills, his skill as a public speaker has been even more prominently recognized. In 1990 he emerged from a field of more than 25,000 competitors to become the Toastmasters World Champion of Public Speaking. Since then, he has taught, coached, and mentored seven subsequent World Champions and dozens of finalists.
