

Clyde Nosser

Clyde Nosser has dedicated his life to faith, science, and service. Married to his wife, Melinda, for nearly 33 years, he is a proud father of two sons, Justin and Jared.

With a 35-year career as a chemist at Sigma, Monsanto, and MAL, Clyde has combined analytical precision with a deep commitment to helping others. In 2020, he earned his Master's in Theology from the Aquinas Institute at Saint Louis University, studying under the Dominicans.

Clyde now serves as a Pastoral Associate at St. Boniface in Edwardsville, IL, where he leads Adult Faith Formation and has been actively involved in the OCIA program. His ministry extends beyond the church walls—he visits hospitals, nursing homes, and private homes as a Visitation Minister. He also founded Feeding Body and Soul, a mission dedicated to providing food, essential supplies, and spiritual guidance to the homeless, sharing the love of Jesus Christ and the Catholic faith.

A double leg amputee—losing his right leg in 2017 and his left in 2022—Clyde's journey has been one of resilience and unwavering faith. Since 2022, he has hosted the radio program Quo Vadis and contributed as a writer for Covenant Network's app and website, further spreading his passion for faith and service.
