Hidden dump piles, trash strewn property, abandoned buildings filled with junk, and tire piles left by the roadside – community leaders make discoveries like these all the time. Recycling efforts that start out with good intentions and get out of hand with flat markets and poor planning are sometimes to blame, however, local officials are often left to clean up the mess.

In this webinar you will learn how to recognize and address nuisance waste situations and learn of available helpful tools. You will also hear about nuisance waste sites for materials like shingles, scrap tires, electronics and other recyclable commodities, and how Ohio EPA can help your community address these nuisance dumping situations.
