Californians facing tough choices

More than half of California voters have thought about moving out of state, according to a new poll from the Institute of Governmental Studies at U.C. Berkeley. A full 74 percent of the state's very conservative voters say they are looking into moving.

Of all the questions he hears from citizens of this state, Republican State Senator Mike Morrell of Rancho Cucamonga says that he is most frequently asked, "Is there hope for California?"

While there can be reason to doubt, he sees a number of indicators that should give reason for optimism. Reflecting on California's rich history, Senator Morrell will share his thoughts on the past legislative year amidst changes at the capitol including having Governor Newsom at the helm.

Senator Mike Morrell was born and raised in California. He was married here, raised his family here, and opened two corporations here, Provident Home Loans and Provident Realty, both incorporated in 1989.

Senator Morrell now represents

California's 23rd State Senate District. He serves on five Senate committees, including as Vice Chair of the Committee on Housing and the Committee on Labor, Public Employment and Retirement.

Senator Morrell regularly receives high marks from the National Federation of Independent Business, the California Chamber of Commerce, and the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association. He has also been named Legislator of the Year by the Military Officers Association of America.

How the Republican Party is Organized from the National to the Local Level

Republican National Committee (RNC)

The Republican National Committee is a U.S. political committee that leads the Republican Party of the United States. The Republican Party is sometimes called the Grand Old Party or GOP. It is responsible for developing and promoting the Republican political platform, as well as coordinating fundraising and election strategy. The RNC is headed by President Donald Trump and Chairman Ronna McDaniel.

Each of the 50 US States and 8 US Territories elect three representatives to the RNC. California is represented by: GOP Committee Member Harmeet Dhillon, GOP Committee Member Shawn Steel, and the Chair of the California Republican Party, Jessica Patterson.

California Republican Party (CA GOP)

The California GOP is the official organization of the ballot qualified Republican Party in California, and exercises general direction over the statewide election campaigns for Republican nominees for state elective offices.

The CAGOP is run by the Chairman and the Board of Directors. The majority of these positions are elected at one of the statewide conventions. The electors are delegates sent from the Republican Central Committees in each of the 58 California counties. A delegate is a person, such as an elected representative, sent or authorized to represent others at a convention. Delegates from each county are a combination of those appointed by the Chairman of the local party or designated by their position in the local party (i.e., Treasurer). Also, any Republican who is elected to a partisan office or, if not elected, received the largest percentage of the Republican vote also are assigned a certain number of delegates. The party is organized into Central Committees, one per county in the state.

Santa Clara County Republican Party (SV GOP)

The Santa Clara County Republican Party is run by a Central Committee. There is one Central Committee per county in the state. The Central Committee is composed of 25 regular members and 14-16 ex-officio members who vote to elect a Chairman, Vice Chair, Secretary and Treasurer who form the leadership team. The Central Committee is responsible for registering voters and turning out the Republican vote; recruiting competent Republican candidates to run for both partisan and non-partisan public office; recruiting volunteers; and campaigning for the election of Republicans.

The Central Committee meets on the second Wednesday of every month at 7:00 PM at the Santa Clara County Administration Building, 70 West Hedding Street, San Jose, CA, in the Isaac N. Senter Auditorium. Phone (408) 246-6600. The meetings are open to all Republicans in the county.

Other Republican County
Central Committees

Regular Members are elected to the Central Committee every four years during the Presidential Primary Election. Only registered Republicans can vote for Central Committee members. By California Election Code, members are elected by SUPERVISORIAL District in Santa Clara County. The number of members per Supervisorial District is determined by a calculation of the number of Republicans who voted in the previous gubernatorial election.

Ex-Officio Members are candidates who ran in State Senate, Assembly or US Congressional Districts that in whole or in part touch Santa Clara County, and received the majority of the Republican vote whether or not they were actually elected. They serve on the committee for whatever the length of office (2 years or 4 years) their term would have been if elected.

In addition, any candidate who received the majority of the Republican vote for a state-wide partisan office including the Board of Equalization, who resides in Santa Clara County is considered an Ex-Officio member of the Committee until replaced in a succeeding election by a new Republican nominee or elected office holder.

Conservatives in action: Trump rally

A group of Silicon Valley residents teamed up with an organization called Women For America First (WFAF) and rallied on Oct. 17 to support President Donald Trump and oppose the ongoing impeachment inquiry in the House of Representatives.

The rally was part of a nationwide event, March for Trump, organized by WFAF in 47 cities. The reason they organized the event is that the current impeachment inquiry in the House is “in contravention of long-standing House tradition,” states a press release issued by WFAF. “I love Donald Trump,” said Jan Soule, the president of Silicon Valley Association of Republican Women, adding that the people joining the rally were there to let Trump supporters know that they are not alone in the valley. The rally took place at a corner of the busy intersection between Almaden Expressway and Blossom Hill Road during the late afternoon commute hours. Passing drivers kept honking their horns.

“A lot of people gave us a thumb up,” Soule said.

The impeachment inquiry against Trump was initiated by Nancy Pelosi, Speaker of the House, on Sept. 24. The inquiry began after a whistleblower reportedly alleged that Trump and his top officials had pressured the Ukraine leaders to advance the president’s personal interests.

As of now, two whistleblowers have come forward to report about Trump asking the Ukrainian president to look into the possible corruption of Hunter Biden, the son of former Vice President Joe Biden. Joe Biden is currently running against Trump in the 2020 presidential campaign.

The WFAF press release quotes a letter from White House Counsel Pat Cipollone as saying that in this impeachment inquiry, Trump has been denied “the right to cross-examine witnesses, to call witnesses, to receive transcripts of testimony, to have access to evidence, to have counsel present, and many other basic rights guaranteed to all Americans.”

The press release also quotes the letter as saying that the impeachment process “violates the Constitution, the rule of law, and every past precedent.”

Participants at the rally waved American flags and held signs reading “Trump 2020,” “Stands with Trump,” “Stop Impeachment Now,” “No Spin, No Coup,” and so on.

Linda Rost, who owns a bookkeeping business, told The Epoch Times that she is a Trump supporter. Rost praised Trump for the good U.S.

The current House investigations based on the impeachment inquiry have been focused on whether Trump abused his presidential power by asking foreign leaders to investigate his political opponent.

The WFAF press release states: "There's absolutely nothing the president has done in the past three years that remotely rises to the level of 'High Crimes & Misdemeanors,' the 'gold standard' for impeachment set by our founding fathers at the Constitutional Convention of 1787."

The press release also predicts that the only result the impeachment will bring is to "further divide and embitter an already deeply-divided nation."

Kat Knowles, a realtor at the rally, said that the reason she joined the rally was that she didn't think the impeachment inquiry was fair. Knowles said that the purpose of the rally was "to show the president we have his back."

John Cagliostro, another attendee at the rally, wore a hat with "Trump 2020" printed on it. He also wore a T-shirt reading "Trump Nation." He said that he drives a truck with signs supporting Trump "all over the place."

"Every time somebody flips me off, I got a hundred thumbs up," he said.

Cagliostro is a mechanic who grew up in Saratoga.

"Trump is the most transparent president ever, and he belongs on Mount Rushmore," he said.

Deep state pervasive in federal offices

SVARW's October speaker, Margaret Metcalfe, described just some of the ways the "deep state" interferes with elections and with President Trump's agenda. Metcalfe serves as the Guam representative to the Republican National Committee. At the 2016 GOP national convention, party leaders attempted to remove Donald Trump from the party and to expel the Asian Pacific island representatives such as herself from voting on Trump's nomination.

Those who've held power within the national party didn't want someone like Donald Trump upsetting the power structure.

Within the bureaucracy itself, "there are 50-plus layers of government trying to undermine our constitutional process," she said.

Some of Trump's cabinet members have had trouble getting their staff members to answer phones or write letters, she said, assuming that they were working to keep Trump's people from being effective. Many of the political appointees in the Obama administration were converted to permanent federal workers, ensuring that Obama's liberal policies would continue in many federal agencies, she said.

To see Metcalfe's entire talk to SVARW, log on to SVARW.com where each month's presentation is available on video about a month after the meeting.
