Many clergy and church leaders spend countless hours reading and in live and webinar training on how to move their congregations forward. However, movement forward is often hard or non-existent. In this highly interactive seminar, participants work on what is really holding them and their congregations back from achieving their vision for the future. Utilizing biblical and theological resources, as well as best practices from transition and change management, participants will begin to develop strategies for how to help their congregants deal with uncertainty, loss, and change.
