

Vice Chair: Angela Delpup Bio

Angela DelPup is a life-long resident of Oakland County. She grew up in Troy graduating from Troy Athens High School. She obtained her undergraduate degree in Elementary Education from Oakland University and her MBA years later from University of Phoenix. Angela has resided in Rochester Hills for 32 years with her husband, Tom. She will say their biggest accomplishment is raising three independent, flourishing children.

In the early years of her career, Angela worked as a substitute teacher for Avondale School District and Rochester Community Schools, teaching children of all ages from kindergarten through ninth grade. The opportunity then arose for Angela to move into the healthcare industry joining then Crittenton Hospital as their Child Life Specialist. In this role, Angela not only provided play therapy, distraction and education to all inpatient pediatric patients but also developed a variety of community education programs for families centered around health, wellness, and prevention.

Angela's career has evolved over her 25 years with what is now Ascension Providence Rochester. She is currently Director of Clinical Operations which includes oversight of Community Health and Education, Diabetes and Nutrition Counseling, Foundation, Volunteer Services and Senior Services. An integral part of this roles includes the responsibility of conducting the Community Health Needs Assessment and Implementation Strategies every three years. She has been a member of the Alliance of Coalitions for Healthy Communities Board of Directors since November 2016 as a Member at Large. Angela's love of community, prevention and wellness continues to be the focus of her career and her passion for improving the overall health and wellness of those served in the community a priority.
