

Catholic Schools Week has begun! Thank you to everyone who came out to celebrate Mass at SEAS church this weekend. This was the first time I was in the new renovated space, my parish is in Woodbury, and I have to agree with what one 8th grader said when he first saw it- now it looks like a church. It reminded me more of the parish I grew up in back in Illinois, so it felt like going home again.

Each day of Catholic Schools Week begins with a prayer intention for the theme of the day. Today, we prayed for our students and welcomed Carpenter Nature Center to our school for a fun assembly. We also had a few community visitors stop by the school. It's always impressive watching our students give tours of the building and explain why they think SEAS is a special place. Page two of this letter again has a list of activities and prayer intentions for Catholic Schools Week. Please join us in praying for the intentions of the day.

The Catholic United Financial Raffle has begun! At SEAS, we try to do fundraisers that are easy and whose proceeds go directly to the school. Every dollar raised in the CUF raffle goes directly to the school. Our goal for this year is $13,000 and we encourage every family to sell at least five tickets. The money from tickets sold goes towards your families fundraising obligation and there is a chance to win some great prizes. Additional tickets are available from the office.

It's time for the Patriot Tournament! This is always such a fun weekend ahead. Our SEAS Patriots Girls and Boys teams will be playing this Friday and Saturday at the school. Our goal is to add to the championship banners in the gym and we need your support to help cheer our teams on to victory! Saturday will also feature an alumni game. It's a great way to end CSW, so please make plans to join us.

God bless you all,

Mr. Sullivan
