

Belfast Senior College Spring Courses Registration Now Open

Eleven courses are being offered by Belfast Senior College in April and May, and registration is now open for all remaining morning and afternoon classes.

“After hundreds of people participated in the just-ended winter semester, we are looking forward to the spring semester’s classes,” said Nancy Perkins, president of Belfast Senior College’s Board of Trustees. “Senior College provides stimulation, knowledge, social interaction and fun for people ages 50 and up. Members’ spouses and partners of any age are also welcome to become members. Membership and course fees are low on purpose and we offer scholarships if you need one.”

The semester, which began March 25 with a free brown-bag session on Waterfall Arts, picks up Monday, April 4, with John McClenahan’s discussion of Walt Whitman and “The Essential Leaves of Grass.” Other courses will consider Ukraine and Russia, water, the Impressionists, women Nobel laureates in literature, creative drawing, glass mosaics, mental health, and Jesus. The semester ends with the League of Women Voters’ free discussion of ranked choice voting. A complete list of spring semester courses, along with online membership and class registration, can be found at belfastseniorcollege.org.

University of Maine Hutchinson Center provides Zoom services for Senior College, which is an independent all-volunteer non-profit organization. The summer semester takes place in June, July and August, and the fall semester begins in September. The membership fee for the full year is $25 and multi-session course fees are $27 or $37. All classes are available by Zoom.
