Our next chapter... a name that grows with us!

To all of our customers; past, present and future,

Ten years ago, we started SolarLogix as a small, family-run company focused on solar & heat pump installation. As the demand for electrification grew, so did our company, and product lines. Thanks to the hard work, dedication, and belief in our mission, from our amazing employees and loyal customers, we've grown far beyond our initial beginnings.

Today, we are still proudly a family-run Maine business, but now we offer more than just solar & heat pumps. From HVAC and electrical, to plumbing, batteries, and solar, we are proud to be a full-service provider meeting a wide range of customer needs!

To reflect who we've become, together, we're excited to share that we'll be transitioning to a new name: Logix. This new name better represents our evolution and all that we offer.

Our mission will remain the same; to partner with our customers on their electrification journey toward a more sustainable future, by aligning even more with our core values:

- Create quality customer experiences with the highest integrity and honesty.
- Deliver innovative customer solutions through industry-leading knowledge and technologies.
- Build resilience and success through adaptability and hard work.
- Strive to be the best partner to our employees, customers, and community.

This is a significant milestone in our company's history. We want to assure you, our valued customers, that our dedication to you over the past decade is just the foundation for what's to come. We are excited to embark on this new chapter together.

Sincerely,

Josh Oxley & Rachele Leonard
