

THE PORTFOLIO PRIMARILY INVESTS IN

- Global companies with strong competitive positions, defendable barriers to entry, long-term growth prospects and competent management teams

HOW WE INVEST

- We believe the best way to buy an attractively priced business is to have an idea about it that isn't widely shared by others – what we refer to as a proprietary insight
- We acquire ownership stakes in businesses at prices below our assessment of their true worth

- We have built a distinct culture where our employees think and act like business owners

EDGEPOINT OF VIEW

Sector breakdown: Provided only because the industry feels it helps explain portfolio diversification and risk. We believe risk is best managed by diversifying by business idea rather than using traditional sector allocations.

Country breakdown: Noticeably absent from this document is a breakdown by country. We don't believe a company's head office location provides any insight into its economic exposure.

Risk profile: Risk is typically defined as standard deviation or volatility. While we follow this methodology due to regulatory requirements, we view real risk as the potential for a permanent loss of capital. By this measure, we believe portfolio risk is further reduced.

Investment results: We measure investment success over periods of ten years or more and believe it takes considerable skill to consistently add value over the long term.

Index: While the Portfolio uses this index[†] for long-term performance comparisons, it's not managed relative to the index's composition. Differences include security holdings, and geographic and sector allocations that impact comparability. As a result, the Portfolio may experience periods when its performance differs from the index.

Low-cost operation: With a focused product offering and no expensive marketing campaigns, we're able to pass on savings to our investors through lower fees, ultimately resulting in higher investment returns.

Portfolio: We use "portfolio" rather than "fund" because we believe this better represents the diversification our investments offer.

Alignment: EdgePoint employees are among our largest investors.
