"Legends to Lagoons"

Be warned that you may experience sensory overload on this journey through the islands of French Polynesia, where warm breezes, fragrant flowers, delicious local foods, laughing voices and pleasing panoramas abound.

From the island's famed black pearls to world-class surfing and extinct volcanic mountains, discover why Tahiti has been crowned with the nickname, "Queen of the Pacific." French Polynesia's capital city of Papeete is a multicultural center offering a cosmopolitan atmosphere embedded into the island's natural beauty.

- ◆ Search for unique crafts and goods at the Papeete Market or tour the Robert Wan Pearl Museum to learn about Tahitian black pearls
- ◆ For the active: hike, take a surf lesson or Jeep Safari tour
- ◆ Enjoy a traditional Tahitian dance show
- ◆ Zip around Papeete on a guided Segway tour of this capital city's market, historical attractions and more
- ◆ Snorkel the balmy, turquoise waters of Fakarava, an atoll with fewer than 1,000 permanent residents
- ◆ Learn Nuku Hiva's traditional culinary technique in which food is cooked using the heat of volcanic stones and then savor the island's fresh seafood
- ◆ Challenge yourself to find words to describe the unmatched beauty of the sun setting in Bora Bora on a late-afternoon lagoon cruise

About Our Ship: You might call Regatta the perfect "Goldilocks" ship -- it's not too big, not too small, but rather just right. With only 694 passengers, you never feel like you're in a herd of cattle; there's plenty of space, whether you want to sit quietly with a book or hang out at a bar. The ship is big enough to feature a range of facilities, from lounges like the Horizon's ship-top observatory to the Martini Bar and from restaurants such as the Italian Toscana to the poolside Waves Grill. Even better: Regatta's size gives it a cozy, sociable ambiance and means it can access out-of-the-way ports of call that are off-limits to mega-ships.
