

More about Marlene:

Marlene is an entrepreneur with proven expertise in senior move management, software training and consulting, not-for-profit program management, and German language instruction.

She founded Word Information Services, Inc., a software training practice, in 1983. The firm's client base included international corporations, small to medium sized companies, school districts, government agencies, and individuals.

In January 2008, she combined her consulting expertise, outstanding organizational skills, nurturing personality, and ability to relate to seniors to create Senior Transition Services, Inc., of which she is the President.

As a certified Senior Move Manager (cSMM), she helps manage the details and logistics her clients encounter when downsizing and relocating to retirement living. She manages a staff of seven.

Marlene earned her MBA degree from Drexel University.
