

How can we impact hunger and poverty in the world?

Relative to the world, the US, Arizona and Tucson, our Grace Saint Paul's family is small. It's easy to pass by those that are hungry and say "I'm only one person". I can't help the people of the Bahamas that had their island home destroyed by a hurricane this past summer, or I can't help the Middle East, African or South American refugees with food. I think the whole point of the good news of Jesus and the loaves of bread and fish is that even a single active person can help to feed thousands. Not one of us can do that biblical miracle, but each of us can play a vital role in overcoming poverty in the world.

- Our donations help support US based hunger-fighting organizations
- Provide funds to create safe water delivery systems in lands where there is not clean ground water available.
- Provide training to families in how to grow food to feed themselves
- Provide support for clean up and sustenance to people following a natural disaster.

And we walk to raise awareness of the need to do this work, just as Jesus walked in his country to focus on the needs of the disinherited. Join us next week as we walk in the Tucson Crop Walk, Sunday, November 3rd, 2:00PM. We meet at the First Methodist Church on Park Ave outside U of A Main Gate. Park in the Tyndell Garage. And, if you can, donate through one of the walkers or at the Crop Walk display table in the breezeway. We can make a difference.
