

COPS 'N' ROBBERS:
First Friday Play Reading for July

The GSP Spirit Players' First Friday Summer Play Readings continue Zooming through the heat wave on July 2 at 7 p.m. with a light-hearted look at "Cops 'N' Robbers". We'll be looking at the long arm of the law at work in situations we could not possibly imagine:

- an investigation into a disappearance is complicated by a chocolate carpet stain
- modern art thieves with a no knowledge of Lichtenstein, Basquiat, or Warhol must choose what to steal
- a newly trained detective's skills are tested when called to subdue a deranged playwright
- a desk officer tries to mediate between a robbery of hope and the ransacking of the id
- cops with some acting training show their skills at a traffic stop

The evening's readings end with an homage to that master of the shoot-'em-up, Quentin Tarantino.

People who wish to read on July 2 should RSVP by email to Nanalee Raphael by Tuesday, June 30; contact information is in the Parish Directory. As usual, the evening begins at 7:00 pm via Zoom and will finish at 8:30. Everyone is encouraged to participate as readers or audience. No acting experience required.

The readings for this evening are suitable for humans 16+ years of age. You can request a small part if you wish to read; roles vary in size from one liners to major characters. Scripts, cast lists and Zoom info will be emailed to all participants – readers and audience - by the Thursday before the reading. Hope to see you there!
