

Academic Director of Non-Invasive Imaging — San Antonio

The Children's Hospital of San Antonio™

CHRISTUS Health

We are seeking an experienced Board Certified Pediatric Cardiologist to join the section of Pediatric Cardiology as Director of Non-Invasive Imaging at The Children's Hospital of San Antonio, the first and only freestanding, academic, not-for-profit children's hospital in San Antonio.

The successful candidate will develop an innovative clinical and educational program, and represent the section in the community, nationally, and internationally. The Section consists of five board-certified pediatric cardiologists including an advanced imaging cardiologist, fetal cardiologist, interventionalist, electrophysiologist, general cardiologist, and a physician assistant. The position is to replace a vacancy by a relocating family member. Clinical time will be devoted to imaging, outpatient, and inpatient care, including outreach clinic sessions as well as fetal echocardiography. The position will have dedicated administrative time to develop and implement a comprehensive echocardiographic diagnostic program within the Section of Pediatric Cardiology.

The ideal candidate will have completed a fellowship in noninvasive or advanced cardiac imaging and have at least 5 years' experience. The position is employed by Baylor College of Medicine and offers a highly competitive salary and excellent benefits package including paid relocation.

ABOUT THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL OF SAN ANTONIO

Serving as a focal point for pediatric services throughout the community, The Children's Hospital of San Antonio is a world-class children's hospital – both inside and out. In February 2013, The Children's Hospital of San Antonio finalized an agreement with Baylor College of Medicine, ranked as the #6 medical school for pediatrics by U.S. News & World Report in 2020-21. Baylor College of Medicine recruits, employs and oversees physicians.

At The Children's Hospital of San Antonio, you will find an established legacy of care dating back to 1869 when the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word arrived in San Antonio and health care for women and children was transformed. Brought to the city by Claude Marie Dubuis, a Frenchman who was the Bishop of all Texas, three Sisters arrived in San Antonio to find a town plagued by a cholera epidemic and the remnants of the Civil War. By 1891, the Sisters congregation had grown to nearly 200 and had established the Santa Rosa Infirmary.

The Sisters continued to care for the children of San Antonio throughout the 21st century, building the first and only hospital for children, Santa Rosa Children's Hospital, in 1959. The hospital became part of the CHRISTUS family in 1999.

The Children's Hospital of San Antonio is the culmination of the vision of the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word and the CHRISTUS Health System leadership. The organization now employs over 1,000 staff members, including a 400-nurse team who earned Magnet designation in 2018.

ABOUT SAN ANTONIO

*The Alamo City is one of Texas' most historic and charming metropolitan areas, blending Old West history, Spanish heritage, and all the energy of a big city yet with the warm, welcoming feel of a small town. Residents are drawn to San Antonio by its housing prices, which are comparatively lower than other large U.S. cities, along with the area's sunny weather and mild winters, rich diversity, excellent public and private schools, abundance of green space, professional sports, top-notch restaurants, two major amusement parks, shopping, nightlife and entertainment, and a strong regional economy, plus easy access to a major airport. Stroll or take a river barge along The River Walk, the city's 15-mile urban waterway. On the weekends, you're a short drive from the bustling heart of the city to the beauty and wide open spaces of the Texas Hill Country with its rolling hills and big Texas skies along with the area's abundant restaurant, shops and galleries. You're also conveniently located to explore Austin (less than 90 minutes), Houston (less than three hours), Dallas (about four hours) or the beaches of Galveston (less than four hours). And, as a resident of Texas, you'll pay no state income tax.
