

ABOUT THE POSITION

Sikh Family Center is currently accepting applications for a non-exempt, part-time Community Education and Communications Advocate. The ideal candidate can work remotely, from anywhere in the U.S.

The Community Education and Communications Advocate will work collaboratively with SFC's other Community Advocate and with the larger SFC Board to support SFC's education and communication strategy and objectives, by doing the following:

1. Develop new, community-focused initiatives that encourage programming and outreach on intra-community issues, including (but not limited to) health, family violence, language access, child welfare, immigrant rights, etc.;
2. Create resource materials in both Punjabi and English, such as manuals, best practices, and community toolkits that can be easily used across the U.S.;
3. Conduct community outreach and information sharing, through an active social media presence (Facebook, Twitter, etc.), email, webinars, in-person, etc.;
4. Coordinate and help oversee SFC's fundraising to expand staff & services;
5. Build and maintain collaborative working relationships with Sikh organizations and institutions;
6. Provide peer support and response to community members who contact SFC through Helpline, email, or in-person, across lines of age, gender, immigration status, etc.;
7. Help manage and motivate SFC's national volunteer network.
