ACEC Texas Presents Representative Ken King with the “Champion of Infrastructure” Award for the 89th Legislature

Austin, TX – The American Council of Engineering Companies of Texas (ACEC Texas) is pleased to recognize Representative Ken King (R-Canadian) with the Champion of Infrastructure Award for his work on behalf of Texas engineering firms during the 2025 Legislative Session.

The Champion of Infrastructure Award recognizes elected officials who support the engineering business community by promoting policies that encourage infrastructure development and create a fair, business-friendly environment in the State of Texas. The award recipients are chosen by the members of the ACEC Texas Public Policy Council.

Representative King is an unwavering leader in the Texas Legislature and a strong advocate for rural and west Texas values. A rancher and small business-owner, Representative King serves as Chairman of the House Committee on State Affairs which oversees many complex and statewide issues, including infrastructure.

“Chairman King continues to be a strong voice of reason, while bringing a common sense, business-minded approach to intricate issues affecting the State of Texas,” said ACEC Texas President Peyton McKnight. “He has been a staunch supporter of education and infrastructure investment, and ACEC Texas is proud to once again acknowledge his work and leadership with the Champion of Infrastructure Award.”

ACEC Texas is the business association of Texas engineering firms. The organization is committed to advancing the private practice of consulting engineering, enhancing markets for private engineering services, educating the public on the importance of infrastructure investment, and promoting sound business practices within the industry and its client base.
