

Volunteers Needed For Research Study

Communication between Parents and their Children

We are conducting research to find out how parents communicate with their children during a social interaction. You will be asked to play with your child during a recorded session and answer some surveys about your mental health and this will take three hours total. Participation will take place on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus. There is a minor risk of a breach of confidentiality involved in this research. There is a possible risk of emotional and/or psychological distress because the surveys may involve sensitive questions about your mental health.

- ✓ We are looking for 2 groups of children with their parents: We are looking for children who have a diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder and a control group of typically developing children.
- ✓ Age Range for your children: 6 – 10 years.
- ✓ One visit (~ 3 hours) is required.
- ✓ You and your child will get compensation for your time and help.
