

MOVIES TO WATCH FOR

Black History Month!

AN OPPORTUNITY TO WATCH, LEARN AND
EXPLORE SOME OF THE EXPERIENCES, CHALLENGES, AND TRIUMPHS OF THE AFRICAN-AMERICAN COMMUNITY.

FEEL FREE TO WATCH THESE FILMS WITH
YOUR CHILDREN AND FAMILY TO TAP
INTO CRUCIAL CONVERSATIONS YOU CAN HAVE DURING BLACK HISTORY MONTH
AND THROUGHOUT THE REST OF THE YEAR.

Films

Dancing in the Light: The Janet Collins Story

This is the uplifting true story of Janet Collins, whose dedication and determination led her to become the first African-American ballerina in the country to perform at the Metropolitan Opera House. (Recommended for ages 5 and older).

Garrett's Gift

This short movie explores the history of a famous African-American inventor and probes into the enchanting places where ideas originate. (Recommended for ages 5 and older).

Our Friend, Martin

The film follows two friends in middle school who travel through time, meeting Dr. King at several points during his life, including the Civil Rights Movement. (Recommended for ages 13 and older).

Hair Love

Hair love is a loving story about an African-American father learning to style his daughter's natural hair in his wife's absence. (Recommended for ages 3 and older).

And The Children Shall Lead

Direct and sensitive, it personalizes a portrait of America's difficult struggles to break free of racism. (Recommended for ages 9 and older).

Remember the Titans

It is a deeply moving film about the courage of individuals and the power of sports to transcend perceived and ingrained differences in a newly-integrated school. (Rated PG).