

Tammie King-Johnson is a Leader with Mercyhealth overseeing the House of Mercy Homeless Center a 25- bed emergency shelter. She is also is the owner of King Consulting Services (KCS) a social justice firm whose mission is “Helping Families Thrive Not Just Survive”.

Before joining Mercyhealth in late 2017 she worked full-time as a Cultural Competence/Technical Assistance Consultant supporting the State of Wisconsin’s efforts to implement evidence-based and culturally competent services through the Wisconsin Department of Health and Human Services. She provides a wide range of professional services for those interested in social justice through systems improvement, organization/program development and community capacity building. An advocate for social justice and health-equity Tammie possess 20+ years of professional experience as an administrator and trainer. King-Johnson is the founding executive director of Hands of Faith (Family Promise of Greater Beloit), a faith-based homeless shelter. She’s worked in roles where she was responsible for several home-visit based maternal and child health, homeless/subsidized housing and family, economic self-sufficiency programs.

She is a frequent guest lecturer at Beloit College known as the “Yale of the Midwest” and served as the founding Co-Director of the institutions Liberal Arts & Practice Center Summer Series, preparing internship and research students for community-based and service learning.

Tammie holds a ‘BA in Management and Communications from Concordia University Wisconsin, is a Certified Family Development Specialist through the National Resource Center-Family Centered Practice, Iowa School of Social Work and a graduate of the Rock County Leadership Development Academy and the prestigious Healthy Wisconsin Leadership Institute, Medical College of Wisconsin and University of Wisconsin School of Medicine & Public Health. She currently serves as Chair of the Wisconsin Inter-Agency Council on Homelessness-Racial Equity Workgroup and is an Ambassador for the Greater Beloit Chamber of Commerce. King-Johnson is a native of South Beloit, IL. She resides in Beloit, WI with her husband Andre.