

Next DNSIB Meeting Date To Be Determined

We have decided to hold a few of these relational meetings before meeting as a larger group again. That way, we'll have a bunch of reports to give from those meetings which will, in turn, inform a new discussion on strategies. Also, with the holidays, it's always hard to find a good time that works for everyone's schedules.

So, for the time being, we're going to hold off on scheduling another meeting. It seems likely that the earliest we'll meet again will be early December; but it could be as late as January.

Don't worry – No meeting does NOT mean no progress!!

We want to meet only when it makes the best use of everyone's time.

That way, too, you'll know that when a meeting is called, it's really important that you be there!

Thanks very much, and we'll be in touch soon to arrange relational meeting teams.
