

THE PRIVILEGE INSTITUTE PRESENTS THE WHITE PRIVILEGE SYMPOSIUM

LOVING JUSTICE:

ASSERTING HUMAN DIGNITY AND FORGING BOLD ACTION

APRIL 12-13, 2019 • ST. NORBERT COLLEGE CAMPUS

"A segregated community, whether by race, ethnicity, or income, can be problematic ... [it can] stifle economic growth, wages, employment rates, and perceptions of economic strength."

– Brown County Life Study (2016)

By some measures, Wisconsin is America's most segregated state. The statistics in Brown County are telling:

- Housing Gap: 69% white home ownership vs. 7% African-American
- Educational Gap: 3% white students suspended vs. 17% African-American
- Financial Gap: 55% white "very secure" financially vs. 32% non-white
- Healthcare Gap: 95% white insured vs. 70% Hispanic/Latino insured

How can we fix it? How can life be improved for all our friends and neighbors? How can we build what Dr. Martin Luther King called "the beloved community"?

You're invited to join us on campus for the Loving Justice symposium as we explore opportunities to grow in understanding and become impactful agents for change.

Individuals will learn about historical inequity, develop skills to address it and enact loving justice.

Educators will discover how to create a more inclusive curriculum, apply new pedagogical tools and build safe/affirming schools.

Business leaders will acquire insights on building a diverse talent pool, retaining/engaging employees and driving innovation.

Students will witness diverse experiences, talk honestly about difference and learn how to lead inclusively.

In the St. Norbert College spirit of radical hospitality, and in keeping with our commitment to building a just local community, all are welcome to our campus to have this crucial dialogue in a peaceful and loving space.

- Friday, April 12 – 5-9 p.m.
Registration, keynote and "edutainment." (Friday night is free and open to the public; registration required.)
- Saturday, April 13 – 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
