

Monday, September 24

Family Separation at the Border: Beyond the Crisis

This event is being co-sponsored with USC Sol Price School of Public Policy and Sacramento Area Congregations Together (SacACT)

Amid public outcry over the thousands of migrant children separated from their parents at the U.S.-Mexico border, there are also long term legal consequences that will change the political and international landscapes. We are bringing together legal scholars and practitioners, community advocates and a civic engagement expert to discuss their different perspectives. The speakers will allow the audience to better understand immigration law and policy in the broader context of world affairs, as well as to encourage public dialogue on these issues.

Raquel Aldana

Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Diversity
& Professor of Law, UC Davis

Kevin Johnson

Dean, UC Davis School of Law

Holly Cooper

Co-director of the Immigration Law Clinic, UC
Davis School of Law

Mindy Romero

Director of the California Civic Engagement
Project, USC Sol Price School of Public Policy

Eddie Carmona

Political Director, PICO California

Patrick Gihana

Attorney at Law and World Affairs Sacramento member

Registration: 4:45 PM

Program: 5:00 to 7:00 PM

Member: Free

Student: Free

Non-member: Free

USC Sol Price School of Public Policy, 1800 I Street,
Sacramento, CA