The windows of St. John's in Marysville tell the history of the church and town and the community.
1 – The chalice of St. John the Evangelist, the namesake of St. John's Marysville. The story goes that a Roman Emperor ordered St. John to drink a cup of poisoned wine. When John took the cup to obey, the poison took the form of a snake. We sometimes see a serpent accompanying the chalice to symbolize this legend.

2 – At the top, we see Sutter County courthouse completed in early 1850's. Many parishioners were judges and attorneys.
Below that is the wooden covered bridge across Feather River signifying the connection to Yuba City.
Bottom left is the typical Sutter county ranch growing grain fields- the largest single crop grown in early days in Sacramento Valley.
Other buildings in the community are represented on the right side – Hall of Records,
