Best way to “TOOT” your horn without “BLOWING” IT

From the author of the same book; Peggy Klause; <https://www.amazon.com/Brag-Tooting-Your-without-Blowing/dp/0446692786>

TAKE 12....the bragologue

Things you are most proud of having accomplished in your personal and professional life.
Combine personal and professional as your brag.

1. What would you and others say are 5 of your personality pluses?
2. What are the 10 most interesting things you have done or that have happened to you?
3. What do/did you do for a living and how did you end up doing it?
4. What do you like/love about your last/current job?
5. How does/did your job/career use your skills and talents, and what projects are/did you work on that showcase's them?
6. What career successes are you most proud of having accomplished?
7. What new skills have you learned in the last year?
8. What obstacles have you overcome to get where you are today, both professionally and personally, and what essential lessons have you learned from some of your mistakes?
9. What training/education have you completed and what did you gain from those experiences?
10. What professional organizations are you associated with and in what ways – member, treasurer, etc.?
11. How do you spend your time outside of work, including hobbies, interests, sports, family, and volunteer activities?
12. In what ways are you making a difference in people's lives?

A good self-promoter sneaks up on you, grabs your attention, and wins you over, without you even knowing he or she is doing it.

Office, meeting, lunch, dinner, watercooler, hallway, event, networking, or even restroom talk, it's self-promotion time.
