

JAMES SOLOMON RUSSELL CHAPTER
Union of Black Episcopalians (UBE)
Diocese of Southern Virginia

October 30, 2020

Dear Fellow Episcopalians

The Union of Black Episcopalians (UBE) stands in the continuing tradition—more than 200 years—fighting racism in the Episcopal Church. UBE fights racism by encouraging the involvement of People of Color in the total life of the church—on every level and in every way—mission, stewardship, evangelism, education, leadership, governance and politics. The Union is committed to translating these words into Christian action for all Episcopalians and at all levels of the Church.

Your support, financially and spiritually, continues to be critical as we continue our work to ensure that diversity is essential if the larger church is to be faithful to Christ and successful in its mission to the world.

Please consider a life membership or regular membership as a sign of your support and in affirmation of our shared witness for racial justice and reconciliation.
