

Cancer is a disease that affects everyone, but it doesn't affect everyone equally. African Americans and other communities of color experience greater obstacles to cancer prevention, detection, treatment, and survival. Reducing these disparities is an overarching goal of the American Cancer Society.

Please join us virtually during

Suits And Sneakers Week

Wednesday, January 27th at 7 pm ET to learn more about

ADVANCING HEALTH EQUITY

through a cancer lens

Through this session, we want to provide the knowledge and tools to be a community leader and play an active role in leading conversations and taking meaningful action to address cancer disparities.

You will hear from:

Craig Robinson, Executive Director, NABC

Tawana Thomas-Johnson, Vice President, Diversity and Inclusion, ACS

Ashley Brown, Director, Health Equity, ACS

Additionally, staff from both the American Cancer Society and the NABC will be available to answer questions.

To join us, RSVP to Cammie.Edgar@cancer.org

You will receive a confirmation email with a Zoom link prior to the call.
