More Mentor Texts to Promote Social Justice and Culturally Responsive Teaching

Hosted by Sarah Cordova

In this second PD Short focused on sharing mentor texts to promote social justice, participants will discover more books to help students feel valued and seen in their classrooms. Books that feature diverse cultures, families, settings and are written by authors who have lived these experiences, provide opportunities for students to see themselves in texts and peek into the lives of others. As teachers use their mentor texts for diverse purposes, these books become favorites for students and teachers, alike. New and returning participants welcome!

Audience: Teachers Grades K-8 and Administrators
