As we reflect on the year behind us, and look forward to the one ahead, we have a prime opportunity to take inventory of all the images and words that helped us get to where we are today. These inspirations can propel us forward in new, and possibly different directions.

One of the most rewarding things for me as a GFWC member has been discovering and exploring all of our different walks of life – some of us have decades of years as GFWC members (and many starting as Juniores!), while some are in single digit years of experience in federation. For those of you with less than a year under your belt, I am so inspired by the eager, positive energy you bring. Whatever our profession or background, we all share in our common desire and need to serve our community and share our experiences, if only to let others know they are not alone.

2020 was an incredibly challenging year. It was also however, an incredible time to slow down and really contemplate, reflect, and reassess values. Take a moment with your fellow club members and really think about the new ways you experienced things in 2020. Did you take a photo of a beautiful sunset, or that mystical spider web on your morning walk? Did you experience something so intensely that you felt compelled to write an essay about it, or a short story? Did you capture a poignant moment at one of your volunteer events? Now is the time to share all of that creative energy with everyone!

Here are a few important dates and guidelines to keep in mind (detailed notes are attached):
