

Gold Partner Introduction | By: Inna Telkova, JD

As we practice social distancing, we may start feeling like we are fighting the good fight alone, especially for those of us who have spent majority of our career working alongside others in a busy office. As someone who works remotely all the time, I know that experience all too well, so I'd like to encourage all of us to use this time to reach out to our network on LinkedIn and get to know our online colleagues.

Today, I'd like to introduce you all to Brett Leschinsky, Sr Mortgage Loan Officer and Divorce Mortgage Specialist. He specializes in helping individuals purchase and refinance their homes, especially individuals who are going through or just ended their divorce process. As he says, "A strong partnership with a mortgage professional who knows the nuances of divorce transactions increases the value you bring your clients. With a short 15-minute discussion, I can help them understand and navigate through their post-divorce goals and help them avoid the pitfalls." I can't agree more. If you want a fun night of mortgage trivia, he's your guy.
