

Annual CLI Forum Carl Arnold

December 3 - Mark Your Calendars for the CLI Annual Forum

You may already have some big plans for November 3 (hint, hint, VOTE!), but you better have DECEMBER 3 blocked off on your calendar for the 2020 CLI Annual Forum. :)

This year, as you may have guessed, the CLI Annual Forum IS GOING ONLINE! Will this be cool or will this be lame like a boring webinar?...don't worry, we are convinced that it will be really cool! This won't be like any other online event you have attended. We are really going big with different ideas for interaction, creativity and opportunities to learn and grow.

You may have seen the email on the CLI Listserv about the TikTok challenge. Even if you don't submit a video, attending the CLI Annual Forum to see the videos and to cast your TikTok vote will be worth your time!

Did you wonder what our evening social activity will be? We are exploring dividing the attendees into groups to do an online Escape Room via Zoom. I think it sounds really cool.

For our speaker line-up, the Obamas, public radio's Krista Tippett and Tina Fey from 30 Rock/SNL/etc have all turned us down, so we are on to plan B. Seriously though, we are still lining up speakers but we are hoping to include topics related to restorative justice (a form of dispute resolution) and diversity and inclusion. Importantly, we are excited to showcase our very own CLI members presenting on Closure in the Collaborative Process, a panel discussion on Parenting During COVID and Zoom Etiquette, among other topics. Stay tuned!
