Questions About the New Federal Education Law ESSA?

As you may be aware, last year the U.S. Congress passed the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) as a replacement to the former law known as No Child Left Behind (NCLB). This fall, the Colorado Department of Education is working to develop a state plan to implement ESSA and they are seeking local input. The plan, once final, will become effective beginning in SY 17-18. Because multiple DPS teams and many of our partners are involved with the state's planning process, we've set up the following email address for DPS staff to go to with questions, concerns or suggestions: ESSA@dpsk12.org. Please be in touch if you have questions on the state planning process or specific policies.
