With the unfamiliar forms, mountains of essays to write, and infinite financial aid opportunities to discover, applying for college can be stressful — particularly for first-generation college students.

We've all been there. That's why the Office of College and Career Readiness and our postsecondary partners developed Application Week, in which students get their college application fees waived and work with an advisor to help them understand the application process.

Volunteers will help students navigate the following:

- College application support
- Creating a Federal Student Sid (FSA) ID
- College essay assistance
- Scholarship support
- Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)

Every DPS student who wants to go to college, can go to college. Make an impact and serve with #teamDPS.
