ReEnergy Livermore Falls

National Bioenergy Day, held during National Forest Products Week, highlights the many benefits of the bioenergy industry

The 39-megawatt ReEnergy Livermore Falls facility uses biomass fuel to produce approximately 250,000 MWh of electricity each year – enough to supply nearly 32,000 homes. ReEnergy's facilities support hundreds of jobs in the forest products industry and serve as a critical end-market for residue from logging and mill operations.
