BELONGING IN ACTION: EXECUTIVE CONVERSATIONS

Belonging in Action is a quarterly service conversation series hosted by PCCS executive leadership. These sessions create a safe, welcoming space for people supported, family members, employees, brokers, community class vendors, and others connected to PCCS to engage in honest, open dialogue—sharing perspectives, asking questions, and collaborating on ways to strengthen services, supports, and community connections. Together, we listen, learn, and take meaningful action to ensure everyone feels heard, valued, and truly belongs.

What We'll Discuss:

Communication Rhythms
How information flows, who has access to what, when updates happen, and how transparent decision-making processes are.

Support Structures
What resources exist for professional growth, how people navigate challenges, and where gaps in support create friction.

Voice & Agency
When people feel heard versus when feedback disappears, how input shapes outcomes, and who gets to influence direction.

Daily Practices
The small interactions, informal norms, and routine moments that either build or erode belonging
