

They're making their move for America

The threat from the Marxist faction of the Democrat party

When Democratic Socialist Zohran Mamdani shocked the nation by winning his mayoral election in New York City, it was more than a wake-up call. It was an alarming sign that the Democrat party is careening into the final stages of its planned takeover of America.

It's been a long march for the Progressives – over 100 years in the making. It started in the early 1900s, when so-called “progressives” in the U.S., along with socialists, fascists and communists in Europe and Russia, exchanged ideas and fed off each other as they developed their respective philosophies of the perfect form of government.

Before WWI, when Fascism (government control of both government and private industry) was gaining popularity in Italy, and after WWI when Hitler's National Socialism was gaining control in Germany, American progressives admired these forms of government when compared to our democratic republic and capitalist economy in the U.S. They thought that Soviet communism was the ultimate form of government.

The leading promoters of these forms of government were German economists and philosophers. The leading influencers in the U.S. came through Columbia University (NYC) and over time, have successfully disseminated their anti-American ideas. [The Chinese and the Islamists have also played major roles in this effort...a subject for another article.]

A strategy that has worked, so far

Instead of pursuing rapid political revolution, progressive activists sought influence by working within existing institutions – universities, schools, media, courts, and cultural organizations – to gradually shape public opinion and policy over decades.

The “progress” was done behind the scenes, as liberals did not tip their hands about what they were doing but patiently moved forward with their vision in ways that did not immediately call attention to themselves. But today, we know they succeeded. Over time, they have infiltrated and taken over:

- Academia: Progressives in liberal institutions have educated generations of students, trained teachers, lawyers, journalists, and other professionals, and shaped cultural values over time.
- Judiciary: Rather than relying solely on elections, progressives pursued policy goals through litigation and favorable court rulings, using the courts to advance changes that should have been decided by legislatures.
- Media: Progressives dominate many major news organizations and entertainment outlets, influencing which stories receive attention, how issues are framed, what viewpoints are considered mainstream and what narratives drive elections.

The result?

We are now facing a future that has the potential to allow the Progressive agenda to become our reality.

Is there any good news?

Rush Limbaugh often said that if liberals ever actually told people their real motives, they would never get elected. They must hide their true motives in benign “narratives” and other carefully curated language.

But along came President Trump, who pulled aside the curtain to reveal the rot behind the scenes. As his administration has staunchly the flow of government money to progressive organizations and laid bare their plans, progressives have become increasingly panicky – and their leaders are starting to actually admit their agenda out loud and in public. Rush would have relished this!

Progressivism revealed at long last

The handful of Democrat Socialists of America (DSA – i.e., Communist) candidates who recently won their primary elections are not mincing words. They have actually said their platform includes the following:

- Abolish the Senate and expand the House of Representatives, implement proportional representation and ranked-choice voting in all elections.
- Replace the president and Supreme Court with an executive and judiciary that is chosen by and subordinate to Congress
- Abolish the electoral college
- Replace the two-party system with a multi-party democracy
- Abolish police forces and prisons
- Abolish ICE, stop all deportations, and grant amnesty for all
- Free Palestine
- Public ownership of major corporations

These ideas are not new – they harken back to the origins of the Progressive movement. But they are finally out in the open and ready to spread like a cancer within the Democrat party. By not rejecting this extremism, the Democrat party is ushering in its own demise as it is taken over by Communists.

What kind of world do you want for you and your children?

President Trump and his Cabinet are doing everything they can to expose, stop and reverse the Progressive agenda. It will take everything we have to fix 100 years of slouching to Gomorrah.

This is not a time to stand on “principle” and demand perfection in our Republican candidates. Should Democrats and their cohorts gain power, MAGA, America First, conservative policies and President Trump will be halted in their tracks – possibly not to rise again in time to save our country.

If you want your children and grandchildren to live in the America we know and love, it’s CRITICAL that all Republicans, right-leaning Independents and even disaffected Democrats vote a straight Republican ticket in every election, forever more. Get out and work to elect our candidates. Donate, volunteer - do all you can so you can say, “I helped save America.”

[Some material for this article was derived from the excellent book by Jonah Goldberg called Liberal Fascism (2008). We heartily recommend it for understanding how we got where we are today.]