

Daniel Pepe

Bio

Daniel is a family physician at the London Lambeth Family Health Organization. He practices primary care as well as surgical assisting, palliative care, and inpatient care.

Dan attended medical school at the Schulich School of Medicine & Dentistry. He began residency in General Surgery at Western and then subsequently transferred to Family Medicine. After graduation he completed a third year in Academic Family Medicine and then entered full-time clinical practice.

Recently he has become primary care co-chair of the digital working group for Western Ontario Health. He believes strongly that health care transformation starts with primary care.

Outside of primary care he enjoys spending time with his wife, with whom he shares a practice, and their two sons.
