

GAME CHANGER

By Heather Strang

I discovered Victoria Lynn Alexander's Anti-racist Resource Guide as I began to wonder how I can be more involved in transforming racism, even in my daily life. This site is a rich collection of written and recorded resources for understanding and exploring how to live a life of anti-racism, and what that might look like beyond simply "getting it." The guide offers pathways to understanding more fully the history and current workings of racism around us, encouraging us to bring light to them, even the stories we tell our children. It even offers practical support for shaping mutual conversation involving implicit bias. Don't miss this game changer if you're seeking out ways to engage in the dismantling of racism right where we live.
