Since our 1915 founding in The Hague during World War I, the members of WILPF have worked tirelessly for peace, equity & justice for all, obtained through non-violent means.

Two of our founders were awarded the Nobel Peace Prize – Jane Addams (1931) & Emily Greene Balch (1946). WILPF, a founding & continuing member of its international steering group, shares the 2017 Nobel Peace Prize awarded to ICAN for its work on the UN Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons (TPNW), the fifth of five current UN treaties prohibiting weapons of mass destruction.

WILPF US members are working toward the signing and ratification of the TPNW by the US Senate & President Biden. The TPNW officially entered into force (EIF) on January 22, 2021, after ratification by the fiftieth UN Member State. Of the 193 Member States in the UN, 92 have signed, and 68 have ratified the TPNW as of January 2023 – we are celebrating the second anniversary of the TPNW's Entry Into Force this year.

WILPF members in the US and world-wide are also working on many issues in furtherance of the United Nations' Women, Peace & Security agenda (UNSCR 1325 and its progeny) and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW), and many other issues.
