

My First Ken Chalutz
By Renee Starosta

I was super excited to go be a part of Chalutz this year.

Finally getting brought up to the big leagues with all the decision makers.

It was a lot of fun, we started off with a trigger game as per usual, this time how long can you keep a Hershey kiss on your tongue (tie between me and Ben).

Then we moved on to talk about what we want the ken to look like this year and how chalutzim has worked in the past.

I was nervous because I thought it was going to be very formal, but it was chill, and we still got ideas written down in between laughs.

It was really interesting to see how ken events gets organized and created and how everybody's ideas are put into something feasible. I'm looking forward to our next planning session and the first ken.
