Understanding LexisNexis® Risk Classifier

With the launch of our EZ Underwriting program, we introduced a new third-party data source, LexisNexis® Risk Classifier. This new tool provides access to a much larger pool of data enabling us to:

- make quicker underwriting decisions
- meet demand for a much faster and less invasive process to obtain life insurance than in the past.

The Risk Classifier score is determined by a combination of data points that fall into three general buckets:

LexisNexis® Risk Classifier aggregates public records from thousands of data sources in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act to determine mortality and an individual's lifestyle risk.¹

A risk classifier score is not based on a single factor. Rather, it is the combination of multiple data points from these three general buckets that are used to determine an applicant's relative mortality risk.

¹ LexisNexis® has a thorough process in place to determine what FCRA data the Risk Classifier uses for underwriting programs.

The LexisNexis® Risk Classifier does NOT use the following data for mortality scoring:

Race, religion, national origin, marital status, sexual orientation, geography, disability, title, employer, and employment history are NOT used for scoring purposes.

Data that is NOT compliant with the Fair Credit Reporting Act (consumer shopping data, facial recognition, and social media).
