

The Office of Health Equity Presents:
The 2017 Summer Brown Bag Training Series!
What Shapes our Health?

Thursday July 13th, 2017
TRAIN ID: 1071678

This training will introduce root causes of why patterns of health and illness reflect underlying patterns of class and racial inequities. All VDH employees are welcome to learn more about this topic.

The Objectives for this training are:

- Understanding how our economic, social and built environments shape health
- Understanding how our socioeconomic status can expose us to health threats or benefits
- Understanding the impact of inequalities on health
- Relating this information to our roles at VDH to improve our impact

Key Concepts:

Race, socioeconomic status, health policies, healthcare, life expectancy, chronic stress, discrimination, health gap, community.

Panelists:

- Anna Riggins: Social Epidemiologist, VDH
- Scott Andrews-Weckerly: Family Transitional Coach, Richmond City Health District
- Tiffany Cox: Community Health and Prevention Supervisor, Crater Health District
