

The Office of Health Equity Presents:
The 2017 Summer Brown Bag Training Series!
Place Matters

Thursday July 27th, 2017 | Discussion : 12:30 pm - 1:15pm
TRAIN ID: 1071680

CLAS
Training
Series:
Part 2/4

This training will explore how “where you live, impacts your health.” In this training, we will see how one's street address can predict their health outcomes based on access to jobs, nutritious foods, safe and affordable housing, and many more factors. We will see how different places in Virginia have different health outcomes and what factors are the root causes for these outcomes. This training will help us understand why there are different health outcomes throughout Virginia based on location, and once again how health is much bigger than just healthcare provisions.

Training Objectives:

- Understanding how our economic, social and built environments shape health.
- Understanding how neighborhood conditions impact health.
- Understanding the impact of policy decisions on the health of neighborhood
- Explore how your role at VDH can impact social determinants of health

Key Concepts:

- Place matters, Social environment, public policy, neighborhood conditions, accessibility of resources, environmental limitations, location predicts health

Panelists:

- Nikki Patterson: Family Transitional Coach, Richmond City Health District
- Augustine Doe: Health Equity Specialist, Virginia Department of Health
