SEVENTH GRADE GIRLS PARTICIPATE IN GRADE-WIDE BONDING ACTIVITIES

The 7th grade girls participated in a group dynamics activity, intended to highlight the ways in which they are all connected to each other. After enjoying an ice cream treat together, they played a game throwing a spool of yarn to someone else in the grade with whom we share things in common. By the end of the activity they had created a web in which everyone was interconnected. From a love of sports, to a favorite color, to the length of their bus commute and more, the girls were able to reflect upon the fact that there are so many commonalities that they share as a grade. The activities provided an opportunity for the girls to bond as a group.
