because of your website?

ABOUT THE WEBINAR:

Your business might be on the verge of being sued because of your website, and you might not even know it yet. How can that be? The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requires that your website be usable by people who are blind, deaf, color blind have low vision or who have motor or cognitive issues. Thousands of small businesses in Los Angeles are being threatened with expensive Website Accessibility Lawsuits every year. Your business could be next.

Join this discussion with Mark Widawer of WebCompliancePro.com about the current state of Website Accessibility technology and regulations. Get help and learn how to make your website "accessible," make your business less of a target for expensive ADA lawsuits, get more business and even get the government to pay nearly half of the costs.

Sign up now, and you might have your website evaluated LIVE during the webinar.
