

Christopher Dhanraj BlackRock / iShares

Chris Dhanraj is the Head of iShares Investment Strategy for the US ETF business. His team analyzes markets and macro trends to provide actionable market insights across asset classes using iShares ETFs.

Prior to joining BlackRock, Chris worked at Citigroup where he was the Head of Investment Strategy for Citi Private Bank North America and a member of the Global Investment Committee. In this role, he helped set asset allocation and investment strategy for Private Clients and Family offices. Earlier, he also served as a Senior Strategist at Citigroup and Bank of America / Merrill Lynch advising Institutional clients. Prior to this, Chris was the Head Trader at Traxis Partners, a multi-asset hedge fund seeded by Morgan Stanley. He began his career within the Emerging Markets Foreign Exchange trading division at Citigroup.

Chris holds a B.S. in Economics from the Wharton School and a B.A in International Studies from the University of Pennsylvania. He also earned an MBA from Columbia Business School.