

From Nightmare to Dream: Overcoming the Unholy Trinity of Poverty, Racism, and Violence

Sunday, Nov. 6, 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Integrated Arts and Technology High School, 950 Norton Street, Rochester

This November, national and local leaders will gather in Rochester to discuss a challenge identified by Martin Luther King, Jr., that still plagues the United States: the ever-present link between poverty, racism, and violence that oppresses people in our communities. Episcopal Church Presiding Bishop Michael Bruce Curry and Rochester Mayor Lovely Warren will join a group of other civic and religious leaders in addition to youth from Teen Empowerment to explore concrete ways to support people traumatized by these forces.

Moderated by Hélène Biandudi Hofer, host of WXXI's "Need To Know," the free event will feature community conversation and calls to action. Registration is required.

Note: Children under 18 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.
